Bosch Explores Strategic Options for its Akustica MEMS Microphone Business

- ▶ Bosch offers MEMS (Micro Electro Mechanical Systems) microphones for consumer electronics products through Akustica
- ▶ In response to expression of interest Bosch will investigate strategic alternatives for the Akustica MEMS microphones business
- ▶ Akustica is a wholly owned subsidiary of Bosch

FARMINGTON HILLS, MI – Bosch, the leading global supplier for MEMS sensors, will explore options for the Akustica, Inc. MEMS microphone business. No other Bosch MEMS entities are included in this market exploration.

Based in Pittsburgh, PA (USA), Akustica designs, develops and markets MEMS microphones products and solutions for consumer electronics devices and IoT applications. The company was acquired by Bosch in 2009. Bosch then combined its expertise in high quality MEMS design and processing to create industry leading, proprietary MEMS microphones. Today Akustica provides complete, in-house system design expertise operating through a global footprint.

Angle Advisors, based in Birmingham, MI (USA), has been retained to facilitate and evaluate interest in the MEMS microphone business unit. Business inquiries should be directed to Christopher de Movellan (cdemovellan@angleadvisors.com) and Nolan Monforton (nmonforton@angleadvisors.com).
